He was taken to Putnam Community Hospital in the Mahopac ambulance and released after treatment.

Gospel drama set at mission

The New Jerusalem Players, the Chicago-based dramatic arm of Jews for Jesus, will be bringing their unique program of "Jewish Gospel Drama" to the Farmers Mills Mission, Farmers Mills Rd., Carmel, at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, July 16. The four-member team of Jews who believe in Christ maintain that there is an historical precedent in both the Jewish and the Christian traditions for their use of drama to present spiritual truths.

"For example," says Ephraim Goldstein, leader of the team, "among Jews, the passover Seder was an ordered demonstration with questions and cued answers given for the purpose of teaching the meaning of redemption. Prophets like Isaiah, Jeremiah, and Hosea used drama to speak to the people of Israel, and even before medieval times, the Jewish community around the world would dramatize the Book of Esther in a purim celebration as a way of showing God's faithfulness in preserving His people in the face of adversity."

As for a Christian precedent for drama, team member Lee Cohn says, "The early church used morality plays or miracle plays done in town squares and in market places by a troupe of actors who would show through their skits the folly of worldliness and the efficacy of trust in God. These morality plays were done simply, with a minimum of props, by a group of itinerant players, often monks, who would also tell stories, sing ballads, and try to give a dose of instruction and inspiration in an entertaining manner."

Wherever the New Jerusalem Players appear they draw a crowd. Their programs can take on the formal structure needed for an indoor presentation while staying interesting and absorbing. As part of their evangelistic work of telling Jews about Jesus, they take their drama to the street corners and campuses of the United States as well.

47 are training in evangelism

There were 47 participants who signed up to be trained in evangelism at the Farmers Mills Mission Church. They will be participating in a 17-week long course called Evangelism Explosion. They will be cooperating with the Coral Ridge Presbyterian Church, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in training christians to evangelize the world.

Pastor Joseph DeSha said, "the Evangelism Explosion has been in continuous operation in the Coral Ridge Presbyterian Church for the past 15 years. Up to 500 people have gone out weekly to share the good news of Christ with others. God's gracious working through this effort has been exciting to observe. The church has grown from 17 to about 4,500 members and from one minister to 11.

"Of more importance than membership figures is the actual attendance on Sunday. For the past four years the peak attendance has increased by more than 1,285 per year, bringing the top attendance on a Sunday morning to about 8,000.

"In the area of stewardship the church has gone in this time from home mission support to a budget of over $3.25 million. About 85 families have left the church to go into full-time Christian service. These are just some of the many startling results that can take place when a church takes seriously the command of Christ to equip the saints to do the work of ministry."

Mahopac library displaying steins

Through the courtesy of Jack Tesler, the Mahopac Library will display 39 different and unusual beer steins and liquor decanters during July. Besides a South Sea Hut, the Leaning Tower of Pizza, there are wild turkeys, Japanese Mandarin, German Obermeister, an Indian Caliph, German military mugs as well as the traditional Bavarian mugs. And, if Washington Irving were to stop by, he would be surprised to see a depiction of Rip Van Winkle. It has taken Mr. Tesler 15 years of travel to present these unique items and you will find this collection on the main floor of the library, Rte. 6, Mahopac.

The library is open Tuesday and Thursday evening until 9 p.m. and 5 p.m. the remaining days. Saturday till 3 p.m. Enrich your summer with a visit.

WHAT OFFICIAL INFORMATION ABOUT ME MIGHT I EVER NEED?

When accurate information is needed to fill out forms and announcements, it is often hard to locate or remember, you need all sorts of information when you marry, buy insurance, apply for credit or a job, and yes, even when death occurs. It is wise to prepare such a total record now and keep it in a safe place...not in a safety deposit box because they are usually locked until after the funeral, but rather in a locked drawer of your desk. Do, however, inform your spouse of where this information may be found.

Information most often needed includes: 1) full name, address, Social Security number, armed forces serial number, 2) birthdate and place, 3) blood type, 4) employer records, 5) name of father's and mother's birthplace and date, 6) names of organizations and publications to be notified, 7) location of important documents, 8) any special funeral preferences or pre-arrangements, 9) pre-arranged donation of eyes or body organs, 10) names and addresses of all persons to be notified of your death.
